'BATTLING NELSON' SHOWS EFFECTS OF PUNISHMENT

Defeated Dane Is Under Care of Doctor and Remains at Baths Nursing His Hard Pummeled Ribs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Suffering from the severe punishment received at the hands of Jimmy Britt in their 20-round fight at the Auditorium last night, Battling Nelson, the defeated Dane is today being attended by a physician. Nelson's condition is not serious, but he is still at the baths and is reported to be suffering intensely from the blows rained upon him by Britt. His face bears marks of the battle but it is the body, punished, he received that is showing the effects of the science and hitting power of the Californian.

Ben Selig, manager for Joe Gans, and Willie Britt, representing his brother, Jimmy, will meet tonight to arrange a contest between Gans and Jimmy Britt.

While the local clubs may bid, it is believed that the fight between Britt and the negro will be secured by Rance or Goldfield. The gate receipts of last night's contest were $30,000.

The movement, it is stated, had its origin in Los Angeles where it is alleged, more or less success was achieved by a non-partisan movement in the last local campaign. Others say Ex-Governor George C. Pardee is one of the prime movers in the matter.

As a consequence of the successful termination of that campaign, communication was established with Republicans in various parts of the State for the purpose of holding a meeting in this city to carry out the plan—which it is alleged had been originated in Los Angeles and

Free Criticisms Made Against Cornelius and Other Leaders.

Perilous Questions Asked of President Cornelius and His Answers.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—Serious trouble is brewing in the ranks of the car strikers in this city. It began a short time ago when many of the members of Local Union 205 demanded a rehabilitation and a complete reorganization of the union. The basis for the change these men claim is a dissatisfaction with the management of the strike by President Richard Cornelius and other heads of the union.

The dissatisfied party is headed by Harry Harrison, who claims to have served seventeen years as a platform man for the United Railroads company. His charges against the leaders of the strike are pertinent and he makes full publicly to them.

On the other hand Cornelius and the other leaders allege that Harrison is a traitor to the cause, and that his activity is actuated by the desire to win a reward from President Calhoun of the United Railroads if he can break up the strike.

OTHER UNIONS RESTLESS.

There again there is a growing dissatisfaction among the other labor unions of the city and the adjoining cities who have been contributing freely to the strike fund and paying the entailed charges daily of riding in the labor buses. From these sources are coming the demand that something should be done to end the strike.

Resulting from all these charges are others connected with the distribution of the funds raised and sent to this city for the benefit of the striking Carmen. One of the gravest of these is in connection with the operation of the buses. The union leaders are criticized for having in their reports accounted for large sums of the union money on the grounds of its having been used for defense of members and officers who have at various times been charged with offenses in the courts growing out of alleged disorders.

There is a large faction who are dissatisfied with the present management of the leaders in connection with the strike. The recent meeting they held with the regular union resulted in some plain talk of plain facts. The latest charges are made by Harry Harrison, who alleges that there are fully 200 of the union members who have declared their readiness to insist on a reorganization of local 205.

HARRISON SAYS.

Harrison made the following statement last night.

"I am a union man and have been employed on the street cars of this city for 17 years. I yield to no man in admiration for the teachings of trades unionism. I was one of the organizers of local 205 and have always been active in the councils of the union. But I have grown heartily sick at the way that the strike has been handled and at the flagrant manner in which the members have been exploited for the benefit, political and financial, of some of the leaders. They think more of holding political office and spending union funds than they do of winning the strike. I know what I'm talking about, too, for I have been at the head of the secret service bureau maintained by Cornelius."

CALL IT TYRANNY.

"It is true that many of my fellow members in 205 feel as I do in this matter. They have grown disgusted at the tyrannical methods employed by Richard Cornelius. They want to know, but cannot find out, how the money contributed by other unions is being spent. A certain clique high in the favor of Richard Cornelius is carrying the strike along in a high-handed arbitrary manner. Its members alone know, and they will not tell how the weekly income of $30,000 is being spent. We hear a lot about this $30,000, but I'll take oath that no such sum, nor anything like it, is doled out to us striking platform men. Who gets what is left?"

"If we show temerity and ask for a statement from Cornelius, if we show curiosity about the receipts from bussees, we express an opinion not entirely in accord with that of the leaders. In this strike we are suppressed and called traitors, or openly insulted and accused of disloyalty. We must blindly follow Cornelius, McCarthy, Tveitmoe and the rest of that self-seeking combination or stand convicted of treason. Several members have already been dismissed from 205 for daring to express individual views about the present strike."

PLAYING POLITICS.

"The long and short of it is that Cornelius is playing politics and so is Tveitmoe and so is McCarthy. They play every kind of violence, but members who sincerely oppose acts of violence and whose bloodshed are listed as traitors to the cause. These leaders make believe that they want no violence; all the time they are encouraging it.

"The members of this association are of the opinion that the strike is being conducted against the wishes of the majority of the members in order to satisfy the selfish purpose of Cornelius. His purpose taking the control of the strike from the hands of the men who can command and give every member of the union a hearing. This organization will be composed of union men exclusively. We believe to know what becomes of the 50 cents that they contribute weekly to the strike benefit fund handled by Cornelius and Bowling."

SELLING UNION SECRETS.

"As head of the secret service of the Carmen I had secret offices in the Arcade building in Fillmore street. I discovered that certain officials high up in the union, was selling union secrets to the United Railroads and was getting well paid for his services and reported this to the officials of the union and was expected for my loyalty. They did not care to expose me I guess, and thought that it was easier to expel me than to expose their own dishonest conduct."

"We will hold weekly meetings and will expose the corruption now existing in the Carmen's union. We hope eventually to take the support of every union man in the city and ultimately to bring about a settlement of the strike. We have a membership of 200, though only a week old, so it is apparent that there are many of us who do not like the way that the fight is being conducted."

CORNELIUS LAUGHS.

Cornelius laughs at the assertions of Harrison, who says he was expelled from the Carmen's union for revealing that charges against various officers of that union were being made to the public. Cornelius is an amateur of political Calhoun, and is trying to earn dirty money by getting out his brothers in local No. 205, the president asserted.

Several brands are false the statement that the members have joined in the resolution to organize and that thirteen of the union responded and re-enforced the movement.

VERY STORMY SCENE.

It is noted that some members of the union did go to Harrison's home a week ago and a stormy scene had occurred between the two. Harrison, however, is a member of the carmen's union, he is a member of the Labor Temple. A report submitted by one of the leaders who attended the meeting and the names of those who attended were never sight mentioned and they were never mentioned before they got home. The reason for the stormy scenes of Harrison's home is that he never went out of town.

BLAMES CALHOUN.

It is noted that the members who have left the Carmen's union are mostly members of the Calhoun, who is a member of the Labor Temple. A report submitted by one of the leaders who attended the meeting and the names of those who attended were never sight mentioned and they were never mentioned before they got home. The reason for the stormy scenes of Harrison's home is that he never went out of town.

STATEMENT

Tells Why Assessment Was Levied on Stock of Electric and Gas Company.

The following questions and answers show the charges made against Richard Cornelius, head of the Street Car Men's Union in San Francisco by the Harrison forces and his answers to the same:

Question 1. Why is M. Jim Bowling does not read a monthly statement of the receipts and expenditures of the union at the regular meetings?

A. He does read a statement of receipts and expenses every night to the campaign committee, and his report is available at any time to any member of the union who is curious to know about the way that the money is handled.

Q. 2. How much money has been received from other unions and how much has been paid in benefit to members?

A. Any amount of the union is at liberty to examine the books and find out how much money is being received from the other unions.

Q. 3. Will benefits be paid members after November election, should they remain on strike?

A. I cannot answer how long strike benefits will be paid. That will depend upon how the unions continue to contribute.

I have no idea of there being a let up in the contributions as long as local 206 stands together and fights for the right.

Q. 4. What political position has been favored by McCarthy should Tveitmoe be elected mayor?

A. None of the men lies who says that any political position has been offered to me by McCarthy, Tveitmoe or anybody else.

Q. 5. Why were members expelled when they exposed traitors in the organization?

A. Two members were discharged because they made false charges against other members. The charges made were unfounded, malicious and were known to be false by the two men, A. W. Trow and Harrison. The former is a known spotter for the United Railroads, and with Harrison he is a traitor to trades unionism.

Q. 6. Is the automobile used by Bowing paid for out of the strike fund?

A. 6. Rapid transportation is necessary to the strike, and the automobile is not paid for out of the strike funds.

Q. 7. What commission is paid Bill Burton by owners of teams?

A. 7. I dare say Burton can answer that question squarely and honorably. I know nothing about it.

Q. 8. Do you intend to donate the $100 a month from the civil service commission to the strike fund?

A. I have given my salary of $100 a month to the strike fund ever since the strike was called. I can not say how long I shall continue to do so, but know of no reason why I should stop.

Q. 9. How much money has been received from big Bill Mahon and the International?

A. 9. We have received to date from him $60,000.

Q. 10. Why did Bill Mahon leave town?

A. 10. Mahon left here because his wife lay at the point of death and was about to submit to a capital operation from which she might not recover. He went east to see his wife for perhaps the last time.

Q. 11. Whose name did you use when you built flats in the Mission?

A. 11. I will give the flats to avoid showing me where they are. I did not know that I owned any.

Q. 12. How much do you want for your lots in the Richmond district?

A. 12. I paid $465 for one lot in the Richmond district which I am told is now worth about $1000. It's the only lot I own.

Q. 13. Why do you patronize Japanese laundries?

A. 13. I'll give $20 to any man who can prove that I have ever patronized a Japanese laundry.

Q. 14. Why don't you resign, when you have promised to at least ten times in the past few years?

A. 14. I will resign whenever my resignation is desired by a majority of the members of 205.

Q. 15. How large a "bit" did you get out of the co-operative store?

A. 15. I worked for the co-operative store for six months without salary and loaned the enterprise which I lost.

Q. 16. Do you still hold stock in a certain building and loan association?

A. 16. I lost a little money in that association and quit.

Q. 17. How many shares of stock were given you by the Western Rapid Transit Company to endorse their scheme?

A. 17. None, and the man who inspired that question knows it.

Q. 18. How much money was paid you in Portland for "putting off" the strike?

A. 18. The strike in Portland was not "pulled off." It is still in existence according to my instructions.

Q. 19. Who paid a certain officer's defalcation?

A. 19. I do not know what that question is intended to mean. I know of no defalcation of any officer.

Q. 20. How did you "hush up" John Deveny on the co-operative store?

A. 20. I did not "hush up" John Deveny.

Q. 21. How much commission did you get when you bought the furniture of the O'Farrell-street hall?

A. 21. Ask the dealers. I got no commission. The question is a contemptible one.

Q. 22. As your income was over $200 per month, why did you not donate the remainder, over what the best paid carmen was getting, to the union?

A. 22. My income is not $200 a month. I am doing my share of giving in this strike, and the questioner does not know well.

Q. 23. How much did you get for settling the strike in San Jose?

A. 23. Ask the men in San Jose. They know whether I treated them honestly in their fight.

Q. 24. How much commission did you get for approving our uniforms?

A. 24. I got no commissions. It's easy to ask questions calculated to discredit a man.

Q. 25. When are you going to let us go back to work?

A. 25. When Calhoun is whipped.

MISS BARRYMORE TO BE SEEN IN COMEDY

Charles Frohman's presentation of his distinguished comedienne, Ethel Barrymore, at the Macdonough Theater for three nights, beginning this evening, will be an interesting event. The fascinating young actress is to appear in "Captain Jinks," the play in which she made her debut as a star a dozen years ago, and the play that Mr. Frohman has revived for her pleasure almost every season ever since. A matinee on Saturday is announced.

"Captain Jinks" is regarded as one of the wittiest and oddest compositions that Clyde Fitch has ever bequeathed to the stage. When he submitted it to Mr. Frohman, that manager had been casting about for a play suitable to Miss Barrymore whom he contemplated starring. Both gentlemen agreed that "Captain Jinks" appealed to a picked general cast rather than to a star, but concluded to chance a stage production with Miss Barrymore quietly included in the general cast. They bedded better than they knew, for the play not only triumphed, but Miss Barrymore shone out resplendently as a star. The name of the young actress was at once featured prominently in all the advertising and she became an innumerable source of profit to manager and author alike and an unprecedented glory unto herself.

render invincible this new revolution by calling the organization the Lincoln Republican Club, or the Lincoln Republican League of California.

The Judge also paid a compliment to President Roosevelt, and declared that he felt the present incumbent of the office of president as some person, who holds his views on public matters should be elected to the position of chief magistrate of the nation.

The Judge's remarks were received with cheers.

Several delegates then stated that they thought the organization should comprise, beside a general body, a club for every assembly district in the State. To this idea, every delegate present agreed.

One of the delegates in attendance then introduced the following as a rough draft of the principles of the proposed organization:

THE PLATFORM.
Organized in order that government of the people, by the people and for the people may not perish from the earth!

"The immediate and essential purposes of the Lincoln Republican club movement in California are:

"1. The emancipation of the Republican party in California from domination by the political bureau of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and allied interests, and the reorganization of the State committee of that party to that

"2. The selection of delegates to the next Republican national convention, pledged to the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for President, or should his nomination for any reason become impossible, then to vote for a candidate known to be truly committed to and identified with Roosevelt's policies, and to oppose the nomination of any reactionary styled 'safe and sane' by the great corporate interests.

KOREAN PRINCE PLEADS AMERICAN INTERFERENCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Hoping to induce the American government to intervene and prevent Japan from obtaining further domination in Korea, Prince Tiyono, Ok! Yi and Yi Bang Sul, two of Korea's delegates to The Hague, who were denied admission to the peace tribunal, arrived here today upon the steamer Majestic.

"I and my companions," said Prince Yi, "who speak English, represented the Korean government by authority of the emperor, but Japan used all her cunning to show that we appeared at The Hague without authority."

"We claim our treatment in Holland entirely at the Japanese. Korea will never agree to Japan's domination, and while there have been no disorders yet, unless something is done, there will be a serious uprising."

WANT INTERFERENCE.

"We know before we left Korea that Japan would force the emperor to abdicate. Japan wants to drive us from our land and destroy one kingdom. Korea has always been a peaceful nation. We have no guns, arms or powder, and we expect the American people in their fairness and justice to interfere."

"The United States does not realize what Japan's policy is in the Far East,"

DIES OF BROKEN HEART.

Mr. Sul said that his fellow delegate to The Hague, Yi Tae, was now overcome when he learned that he would not be permitted to appear before the Hague tribunal, that he died of a broken heart.

MINERS AT HIBBING AND EVELETH RESUME LABORS

DULUTH, Aug. 1.—Work on the ore docks began promptly this morning with 243 men and more will be put to work as the day advances. There was no trouble. There are between 200,000 and 250,000 tons of ore upon the docks, which will last a week; besides the yards are full of loaded cars. No word has come from the range country yet and this is taken as an indication that there was no violence when loading began at Hibbing.

Sheriff Bath is upon the scene and will watch things and report to the governor if there is a need for troops.

Operations were resumed this morning by the Hibbing and Eveleth mines. At Eveleth more than 300 men are working and at the Fayat mine one was being taken out. The Drake and Stratton Company was also stripping. This morning in the Hibbing district a large number of miners were operated. The ore from these mines was being shipped to Duluth and Two Harbors to supply the docks there.

There was no violence of any kind this morning, but the effect of an inflammatory speech by strike leader Petrelia before mass meeting of the strikers at Chisholm last evening is feared.

SPEAKS FOUR LANGUAGES.

Petrelia's speech was repeated in four languages. He said the moment was at hand when the miners should take the law into their own hands. He ordered the men to arm themselves and he prepared to strike to kill. He said he did not care how many of them were killed.

GREAT SCIENTIST DECLARES THAT WE CAN TALK TO THE DEAD AND THAT THEY ANSWER US

Mr. James H. Hyslop, Late of the Columbia University, Says That He Has Received Messages From Beyond Grave.

Dr. Hyslop referred to a tacit agreement he made before the death of his companion and co-worker, Dr. Richard Hodgson, that they would try to communicate with each other after one had died. Hodgson died in 1905. Dr. Hyslop went to a woman librarian, a medium. She gave him a bit of a message from his friend, Dr. Hyslop said. Three days later he went to the famous medium, Mrs. Piper. She wrote, while in one of her trances, a message from Dr. Hodgson, which said: "I tried to tell you such and such a word."

Two days after that, Dr. Hyslop said, he tried it again and got a whole sentence from Dr. Hodgson. Then he wrote to the son of Professor James, the great Harvard psychologist, and got a sitting with

"Through him," said Dr. Hyslop, "I got the identical sentence which I got through Mrs. Piper. It is a corroboration of facts which can't be attributed to chance."

ERKELEY, Aug. 1.—Philosophers discuss the probability of a future life must give way these days, according to Professor James H. Hyslop, who is able to present scientific proof that people exist after death. This announcement was made by Dr. Hyslop, eminent investigator in the world-wide phenomena to an audience of university students and others. The statement was preliminary to an account of the speaker's experiences as investigator and a plea for support of the experts who work to get the facts about the future life and world of spirits.

Professor Hyslop was formerly professor of logic and ethics at Columbia University, New York. His experiments with mediums, his books and lectures have helped to make him famous. He is at the head of the psychological research organization in America and is regarded as an authority of disputed preeminence in his field. Fame and high standing won for the attention of a big university and as he talked of science and the world of spirits.

WILL ORGANIZE BRANCH. Hyslop is on the coast to organize societies for psychical research. He desires endowments for work and hopes to enlist the interest of wealthy persons, among whom, who will aid in the task of lighting light upon the mysterious problems connected with the theory of future life. Such a society is to be organized in Berkeley during Dr. Hyslop's stay.

SECRETARY METCALF IS NOT TO LEAVE CABINET Carried Out the President's Orders When He Announced Coming of Battleship Fleet.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The announcement that President Roosevelt has been removed from the Navy Department by Secretary of the Navy Victor H. Metcalf is not on the best of terms and that the latter will soon retire from the cabinet does not seem to create any talk here because the insiders do not take any stock in the story. Those who are well informed know that Secretary Metcalf and President Roosevelt had a special conference at Oyster Bay before the Secretary departed for his home in Oakland, Calif. The sending of the battleship fleet to the Pacific Coast, it is said, was discussed at that meeting and it is understood that it was agreed upon that Secretary Metcalf should make the announcement when he reached his home city. So all this talk about Metcalf putting the President in a hole is rumor and gossip. Metcalf is said to still be in the good graces of the President.

The Atlantic coast is exceedingly jealous of the Pacific Coast in the matter of the battleship fleet and the people here do not want it to go away as the fleet is a great circulator of money, about $30,000 being spent every day to maintain it.

KEY ROUTE EXTENSION TO SACRAMENTO IS PLANNED Water Front Lands at Berkeley Are Being Acquired by Persons Allied to the Realty Syndicate.

BERKELEY, Aug. 1.—As a part of their general scheme to improve the Berkeley waterfront and establish a ferry line, the Realty Syndicate is said to be quietly acquiring title to property in West and North Berkeley which will be used as a right of way from a proposed line of rails.

It was noted in these columns several days ago that there was an organization formed known as the Berkeley Waterfront Company, an organization whose incorporators were allied with the Realty Syndicate. The plan of the company is to acquire all possible tide lands along the West Berkeley shore.

Now comes the information that agents of the big realty corporation and ally of the Key Route and Oakland Traction Company is adding to its holdings in West and North Berkeley. Some months ago a certain strip of territory was acquired for car line purposes.

KEY ROUTE EXTENSION. It is understood that the Key Route trains will run through to Martinez and Sacramento within a year or two. This means that Berkeley will be immensely benefited and that the northwestern portion will be rapidly built up. Terminals at both Martinez and Sacramento have already been acquired.

According to the surveys and the plans of the engineers of the Key Route Company, the right of way which the Realty Syndicate already has in the neighborhood of Fortieth street, Oakland, the new line will start at that point. The Santa Fe railroad has leased a portion of this track for the Richmond trains.

The Santa Fe and Key Route trains will run regularly on the one set of tracks from Fortieth and San Pablo avenue to Russell and Sacramento streets in this city. The new Key Route will then run out Sacramento street, thence up Addison to California and along the latter thoroughfare to Hopkins street, where a diagonal line will swing across to Rose street.

LINE TO MARTINEZ. The line to Martinez has not been fully surveyed, but the railroad has a right of way along the Berkeley and Contra Costa foothills, passing near Boulevard Gardens, Henderson-Tapscott and other large residence tracts that have been recently opened up.

Branch lines are likely to connect

Yet Another Mineral Is Brought to Life

Another new mineral has been discovered in association with Benitoite, which was described in the TRIBUNE of yesterday. It is of a black or brownish black color, becoming deep red in thin slices. The name Carlsite after San Carlos Peak, has been given to this stone. Its composition has not as yet been accurately determined. The light of further investigation is now being shed upon both minerals and they will be fully treated in a later report to be issued in the near future from the University Press.

TALESMEN IN HALSEY TRIAL

Many Have Fixed Opinions—Several on Grounds of Politics.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—Lionel B. Feigenbaum, toy merchant, was the first juror examined in the Halsey trial today. He was related to Sam Nappaly, who has been an agent of the gas and electric corporation, and was excused because he had made up his mind.

HAS FIXED OPINION.

Frank Keyes, driver, and former night watchman at Berkeley, said he had a fixed opinion, that he would not want to be tried by twelve men in his state of mind, and he could not give the defendant the benefit of the presumption of innocence until he was proven guilty.

Charles Pope, a real estate dealer, living at 361 Third avenue, was examined by District Attorney Langdon, who was conducting the examination, went into the matter of family connections. Attorney Schlesinger asked if it was necessary to take up so much time.

"Quite necessary," replied Attorney Johnson, "and before we get further we shall probably find out who is taking too much time."

Attorney Schlesinger reported that it is the first time that Halsey was on trial, and that there was nothing to warrant the statement.

Johnson replied that there doubtless soon would be.

When Attorney Schlesinger took up the examination of the talesmen he revealed certain phases of Halsey's probable defense. He called attention to Halsey as "a clerk in the employ of the telephone company." It indicates that Halsey will pass along the responsibility.

SCOTT AND EATON.

The examination included testimony concerning Scott and Eaton, which might indicate the setting up of a defense that these present officials are trying to make a scapegoat of Halsey. Pope said he was convinced that there had been wholesale graft in San Francisco, but he should require proof in any particular case. He was passed.

Austin G. Green, 168 Noe street, a grocer, was examined and excused by both sides on the plea that his wife was an invalid, although he gave promise of being very satisfactory.

James J. Ford, 1213 Octavia street, was called. He testified to having been associated in politics with Attorney Schlesinger. He had a fixed opinion and said he could not serve impartially on the jury.

Frederick Genitt, secretary of the California Bottling company, residing at 775 Clay street, was the next talesman. He had a fixed opinion which could not be set aside, and he was excused.

PASSES BONNELL.

Edward Bonnell, cashier for the Savings and Loan Society, was examined. He was acquainted with Attorney McPike and Secretary Eaton of the telephone company, but said he could give a fair and impartial hearing. He wanted to be excused on account of his business.

Attorney Schlesinger brought in the Olympic club as a factor of the case by examining talesmen as to whether they were members. He discovered that Mr. Bonnell was one of the founders of the club.

Frank Lutley, 610 Hampshire street, a solicitor, was examined. He has a brother who is a carpenter in the employ of the United Railroad, and on his trip to Europe, he would give a fixed opinion.

He was very carefully examined, and at last Attorney McPike asked a question which put forth the mainstay of the defense.

QUESTION HIM.

"Provided you were convinced by the evidence of your own eyes that the defendant was guilty, and the Court would instruct you that this evidence alone could not be legally sufficient for a verdict, would you then vote for an acquittal?" was the answer.

Timothy O'Brien and Sigmund Strubinger were both excused as having fixed opinions.

AMERICA SUPPORTED AT HAGUE CONVENTION

THE HAGUE, Aug. 1.—In the opening debate today upon the subject of general arbitration before the special committee dealing with this matter, M. Asser (Netherlands) expressed the opinion that the extension of arbitration was the only practical way to bring about limitation of armaments.

Joseph H. Choate and James B. Scott, of the American delegation, then reviewed at length the American proposition from a standpoint of humanity as well as international law.

Germany, Great Britain and Mexico supported the American proposition.

Every possible care is being taken to the grand lodge at Philadelphia, new role is a representative young man of Berkeley, and a strong committee was appointed last evening for the purpose of investigating the character and standing of applicants for enrollment.

MAKES ADDRESS.

Colonel J. K. Ritter, who has been a factor in National Guard matters for more than nine years, and recently commander of Company B, Second Regiment, one of the best companies in the State of Indiana, made a stirring address. It stated that the advantages of the National Guard might be summed up under four headings: First, for the practical experience in the handling of arms and equipment; second, the physical training; third, the military discipline, and fourth, to prepare in case of emergency to defend the flag of our country. He further stated that no true union man had any possible grounds for being adverse to the State militia. He warmly commented upon the personnel of the young men present and stated that he had seldom seen in the formation of a company such a lot of clean, upright and bright young men.

PROPOSE TO ORGANIZE SONS OF VETERANS

BERKELEY, Aug. 1.—Sons of Veterans of the Civil War will meet in rooms 10 and 11 of the Town Hall on Saturday evening for the purpose of organizing a camp of Sons of Veterans. Grand Army men are cordially invited to attend the meeting and give whatever advice they can. The meeting is being called by R. V. Coventry, who heads the movement to organize a camp in Berkeley. Some years ago there was such an organization, but according to H. P. But of the thirty members of the camp only seven were paying dues.

Local sons of veterans have displayed much enthusiasm over the proposed organization and Mr. Coventry believes he can get together enough men to form a permanent camp. The election of officers will come later after the camp has been admitted to the head order.

LOW HANGING TREES CAUSING COMPLAINTS

ALAMEDA, Aug. 1.—Numerous complaints have been made to the police lately that property owners are not living up to the ordinance that provides that branches of all trees shall be at least eight feet above the ground.

The reports have been turned over to Street Superintendent Frodden and he is to warn all property owners who are not complying with the ordinance.

FIREMAN FINED.

ALAMEDA, Aug. 1.—John Matheis last night was fined $25 by the fire and police commissioners for being intoxicated while on duty at the Chestnut street fire house. Matheis is the engineer of the department and last Sunday, as alleged in the complaint of Fire Chief Krauth, he neglected his duty to become inoxited.

The commissioners reprimanded him and he promised to do better.

QUEER CACTUS FROM ANDES

Chamber of Commerce Owns Plant for Which It Seeks to Find Proper Name.

The Chamber of Commerce has a flower now in process of preservation for which it has been unable to find a name. It is of the cactus species, a creamy white, and about eight inches in diameter. It was grown by Miss Ida M. Wetmore, of Elmwood and Bonita avenues, Piedmont district.

Miss Wetmore states that the cactus was obtained from an overhanging rock, 10 feet, ten inches high, about 14,000 feet above the level of the sea, in 1872. It was brought to California, planted in a small keg, in which it has remained up to the present date.

For the last ten years the queer plant remained out of doors. Afterwards it was placed on a shelf in a hothouse, where it soon reached the roof of the house. It was brought to the last part of July. It bloomed for the first time, having but one blossom. This year it had four measuring eight inches across.

HADLEN LIQUOR CASE BEGINS AT BERKELEY

BERKELEY, Aug. 1.—The case of Charles Hadlen was begun in Judge Edgar's court this morning. The woman who had been his common law wife was serving a four year sentence for an offense which she had committed on April 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The complainant against Hadlen alleges that on May 11 he beat his wife in his room at Ninth street and University avenue which he held with intent to sell. On the night of May 11, he beat his wife in his room, then offered to ride with her to the rear of his grocery store at Ninth street and University avenue which he held with intent to sell. On the night of May 11, he beat his wife in his room, then offered to ride with her to the rear of his grocery store at Ninth street and University avenue which he held with intent to sell.

It is alleged that Hadlen was conducting a fully equipped bar in direct violation of city ordinance No. 50, which was passed in April of this year.

The prosecution believes they have enough evidence on hand to easily convict Hadlen. Attachments Church and Hayne are continuing the defense.

Why Jury Duty Is Avoided.

It is difficult to get men to do jury duty in San Francisco. A large number of responsible citizens—the best material for jurors in the community—have suddenly found it convenient to be temporarily out of town, and a great many more plead press of important business, illness and other reasons for being excused. Others go up and state that they are biased and have expressed unqualified opinions regarding the guilt or innocence of the accused. This is not to be wondered at. Every effort possible has been made to get public opinion biased to such an extent that impaneling an impartial jury is next to impossible.

The attempt to smother the dissenting jurors in the Glass case is a potent reason why respectable citizens are trying to avoid jury duty. The five men who voted for acquittal have been abused and threatened with criminal prosecution. While the threat is an empty one, it is extremely disagreeable, and is having its natural effect.

The average man shrinks from defamation in the public press, particularly from imputations on their integrity and to dragging their womenkind into unpleasant notoriety, as was done in the case of Jacob Wertheimer. If they cannot render a verdict in accordance with their honest convictions without being abused and traduced, they are determined not to serve as jurors at all. Jury duty for business men is not only tedious and disagreeable, but it entails loss of time and money and neglect of business affairs of importance.

Moreover, business men are extremely sensitive on the score of personal integrity and a kind of notoriety calculated to injure them financially and detract from their standing in the community. Hence they resort to all manner of expedients to escape the ordeal of jury duty, which entails a harassing examination in the jury box and unbridled denunciation in case their verdict fails to accord with the desires and designs of a coterie of self-constituted guardians of the morals, conduct and convictions of the community.

The consequences are disastrous to the jury system. The administration of justice is hampered and delayed, and fair trials made impossible. The entire public is thrown into an exasperated, uneasy state of mind that reacts on judicial tribunals and the procedure necessary to vindicate the law and punish crime. By making justice hateful, the ground is prepared for defeating and bringing it into popular contempt. Its agencies cannot be employed to persecute and oppress without exciting resentment and an opposition to the legal processes by which alone stable government and a wholesome social organization can be preserved.

In other words, the ministers of the law must clearly keep within the line which divides justice from injustice, decency from indecency, if the ends of justice are to be served and respect for judicial process maintained. If no regard is to be had for the rights and feelings of jurors and no independence permitted in the jury room, the jury system will become obnoxious and a farcical futility as a part of the machinery of justice.

Expanding Naval Facilities.

According to a Washington dispatch the Federal government is contemplating the purchase of the Union Iron Works as an auxiliary to the Mare Island Navy Yard plant and the establishment of a naval station at San Diego. Both propositions are said to be recommended by the chiefs of bureaus of the Navy Department as aids to the successful mobilization of the battleship fleet in Pacific waters. It would not be at all surprising if the purchase by the government of the Hunter's Point dry dock should be included in the new naval program. It will be remembered that very recently a Washington correspondent gave currency to the report that the government had obtained some kind of an interest in the dock property. If the government does buy it, the problem of docking the larger battleships in the fleet when foul or needing minor repairs below the water line will have been solved and the necessity for employing private docks for the purpose will have been disposed of.

The purchase of the Union Iron Works is not improbable. It is now and has been for some years past owned by the shipbuilding trust, of which Charles M. Schwab is the head. Not long ago Schwab announced that the establishment would cease to do government work. It would not bid for any more battleships, he said, and the present contracts for warship construction would close its relationship with the government. The excuse given was that the Eastern yards in the trust could build warships for less money. He even hinted at the closing down of the works. If the truth were known the establishment, which coined money for its stockholders when the late Irving M. Scott was its president and general manager, has turned out to be an elephant in the hands of the trust into which it was unquestionably admitted as an element in a stock bidding deal.

Observant and long-remembered citizens will not deem it strange that the navy bureau chiefs should now be programming the purchase of the Union Iron Works, for the proposition they are favoring throws light on the unwarranted attacks which they made a few years ago on Mare Island in order to further the scheme of the location of a new naval station on San Francisco bay. The suggestion of the purchase of the works at the present time as an adjunct to Mare Island excites the suspicion that they were then committed to a deal whereby the private plant could be unloaded on the government. The deal failed then and the friends of Mare Island took their fight for the perfection of the equipment to increase its efficiency. The proposed assembling of the battleships in Pacific waters affords a good pretext for reviving the scheme which was beaten. It will probably go through now, as it is not likely to encounter any opposition from Mare Island and Vallejo, as the unwise suggestion of abandoning the navy yard, which figured in the case above, is not included in the program at present suggested. Perhaps the purchase of the Union Iron Works and the Hunter's Point dock property is as good a thing as the government could now do under the circumstances, for between the two of them and the Mare Island Navy Yard, the Navy Department would then be in possession of a complete plant on the San Francisco bay to meet its wants. And nobody can find fault with the proposition to locate a new naval station at San Diego, for that bay is the most natural point on the southern coast for such an establishment, and it is much needed there as the Bremerton Navy Yard is needed in Puget Sound.

Reduced to a purely legal status the lack of direct evidence in the trial was conspicuous and the fact that the defense saw fit to make rebuttal was further proof of the paucity of evidence against the accused. It is difficult to forecast the effect of the disagreement in the trials of other cases of a similar nature, but it certainly will give a tendency to still the clamorous cry for indiscriminate conviction regardless of evidence so common of late.—Los Angeles Times.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW.*Light on the Columbia Disaster.

The calamity which overtook the steamship Columbia off the Mendocino coast on a recent foggy night is being thoroughly threshed out in the official investigation which is being made by United States Supervising Inspector John Birmingham and the responsibility for it is being gradually fixed. The big mortality which accompanied the disaster makes it the most deplorable that has happened at sea off the Pacific Coast since the foundering of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer Pacific off the Washington coast through collision in the dead of night with a lumber schooner.

The testimony adduced thus far has brought out pretty clearly that three things contributed to the disaster. First: Both vessels were hugging the coast too closely, taking the bearings of their respective courses so as to clear the headlands, and, therefore, following the same path in opposite directions. Secondly: Both vessels were violating the regulations regarding speed during the prevalence of foggy weather. Thirdly: There was either a misunderstanding of signals or an official neglect to be governed by them.

Hugging too closely to the coast has been the bane of steamship navigation off the western coast since commerce has been established upon it. It has been the cause of more disasters to steam vessels than any other. But the masters of such vessels are not wholly to blame for the practice. Indeed, the management of the steamship companies are more to blame for it than the shipmasters. The latter are put under two inelastic restrictions which force them to take the risk. A time limit is placed on the voyage and a limitation is placed on the fuel consumption. No coasting steamship master's berth is secure if he exceeds either. To keep within the time limit and reduce the coal consumption he avoids the rougher water of the open sea and hugs the coast where the water is smoother and advantage may be taken of the currents, with the full knowledge that, in doing so, he is in the thick of the steam coasting fleet.

Navigation regulations governing steam vessels in the proximity of the coast requires a reduction of speed in "thick weather." But the regulation is invariably violated, in order to make time and save coal. The testimony shows that both the steam schooner San Pedro and the illfated passenger steamship Columbia were steaming through a dense fog under a full head when approaching one another, and that the speed was not reduced by either until it was seen that collision was inevitable. It was then too late to follow the regulations.

Regarding the mistaking of fog signals or the neglect to duly observe them, the history of navigation in Pacific Coast waters is full of heartrending examples. Collisions have occurred between the ferryboats in San Francisco bay, which were directly attributable to this cause. The treachery of fog as a conveyor of sound has been repeatedly proved and yet reliance continues to be placed solely on the hearing for the location of approaching vessels in foggy weather and the avoidance of a collision. Then again the signal to port helm and the fog warning at sea are so near alike that the officer in charge is left solely to his judgment to determine which one has been given. The testimony bearing on the ramming of the Columbia by the San Pedro indicates that the watch officer of the latter mistook the former's signal for a simple fog warning and did not discover his mistake until the passenger laden steamship loomed up out of the fog bank crossing his bows. The unfortunate incident suggests that some new rule of signaling under such circumstances should be devised and adopted through which error would be impossible or that all Pacific Coast steamships should be required to adopt as a measure of safety some such submarine telltale as the Boston Traveler, in its comments on the disaster, says is being employed by all steam vessels plying in Massachusetts waters, which never fails to give each vessel approaching one another in a fog timely warning when they are in dangerous proximity. Unfortunately Pacific Coast steamship companies and mariners have been slow to learn the lessons of past disasters, but this last horror of the sea is so appalling that it will be criminal to let it pass without learning something from it which will hereafter lessen the peril of future accidents.

LOVE'S MYSTERY

Friend, what is love? It seems hard to find. Is it virtue of soul, or quality of mind? You say it lives in the throbbing heart,

Possibly.

But, ah, to me it forms part

Of mystery.

For it creeps in the soul in the dead of night, Or comes full blast in the broad daylight.

Does it live in the smiles of a pretty face, Or in gestures made with sweetest grace? You say, 'tis beauty and charm's own art,

Possibly.

But, ah, to me it forms a part

Of mystery.

For it creeps in the heart when it's unaware, And leaves sweet heaven everywhere.

Does it creep in the voice and the gracious smile? Is it something that holds spellbound for awhile? You say 'tis something easily defined--

Possibly.

But, ah, to me 'tis heaven combined

With mystery.

For God is its author, when by angels 'tis brought, And by man can never be stolen or bought.

SOME COMMANDMENTS FOR THE SUMMER GIRL

CUT OUT DANCING

The fifth commandment of the Summer girl is this:

Take heed to thyself, and consider well what thou mayest do and what thou shouldst refrain from doing. Be not of those foolish fat virgins who sit in hammocks, nor of the bony ones who go in swimming.

There is no phase of feminine vanity that is so much to be deplored as that which makes a woman think that she is a universal fascinator, and that what any other woman does she may do.

Nothing is so misleading as this fallacious theory. There are, indeed, few women and still fewer girls, for youth has an allurement of its own, who are not charming in some particular way, but there is practically no woman who is charming in every way.

The tricks of success, daughter, is to find out where you stand—the things that you can do, and the attitudes in which you are picturesque and pleasing, and the poses in which you are nothing but a figure of fun.

It is not easy to really get a line on yourself, because we are all inclined to look at ourselves with a jaunty eye, and few of us possess friends with sufficient courage to tell us what we make fool of ourselves. Still, if you will go to make an elementary study of yourself that will be money in your pocket, and beauty at your heels.

Captain R. E. Ingram, who is at Berkeley Inn, will leave August 10 for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregor Grant Fraser will give up their house in Alameda about September 1 and will return to San Francisco.

Captain F. B. Ladd has returned to her home in Berkeley after a stay at Pasadena with her mother, who has been ill.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Lackey will leave Saturday for a two weeks' visit at Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. Daniel Gilmore of Stockton has returned after a visit with Mrs. J. G. House of East Oakland.

Other Wismers and his mother, Mrs. Mathilde Wismers, have returned after spending three weeks at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

MOST NEED ALL THE HELP.

Of course, there are girls good enough looking to serve themselves up a la naturel, but it is risky. Most of our sex need all the help we can get from our straight front and Marcel waves.

Be natural, daughter. Don't affect to be something that you are not. The trouble with girls is that they see some particular woman doing some one particular thing for which she is applauded and admired, and they imitate her. This is a mistake. First, because an imitation is always a poor thing, and, secondly, because it is so apt to miss fire and not get a single glad hand. There are many men of many minds, and each man has a dozen minds about women. Thus a man will admire one woman for one thing, and another woman just because she is entirely different from the first woman.

This makes it always safest to be

HOT SODA BATHS WILL BECOME FAT WOMAN'S FAD

Harmless, Though Not Recommended for Those of Weak Hearts or Otherwise Physically Affected.

Three-quarters of the feminine world seem to want to "lose flesh," judging by the requests for reduction with which my mail is filled, says a writer in the Washington Times. It is perfectly true that women are inclined to embonpoint with increasing years, and therefore the older one is the more difficult will be the work, both physical and mental, to achieve slenderness.

Much of it must be mental work, for example, for a woman who is fond of sweets has to give them up. Yet this she must do if she starts the process of reducing.

Save enough to have a little pin money. Then you won't have to go to your husband for every cent you spend. And if you don't marry, save enough to be an independent, self-reliant, capable spinster.

Don't be foolish and lend your money to some man who tells you that he will double it for you. It is your money; you have made it and you are the one to take care of it.

Remember that every cent saved now means more ease and comfort in your old age.

You can do without many comforts now because you are young and strong and enthusiastic. It is more fun and excitement to spend your money on pleasure.

But the days are coming when you will have to depend on many comforts that you ignore now. Look out for those days now while you are able to provide for them.

Encourage your young men friends to save also. You can do a great deal for them if you will try to keep them from being extravagant on your account.

Some girls seem to think that the supreme test of a man's devotion rests on the amount of money he is willing to spend on his sweetheart. In my opinion a man pays a girl a greater compliment when he wants to save for her sake than he does when he squanders money upon her.

When he saves it means that he is anxious to reach a position where he can afford to marry.

When he spends it simply means that he is generous because he has no special reason to save.

A sensible, prudent girl makes a thrifty wife, and any man of common sense is quick to realize the fact.

So, dear girls, be wise and save your money for your own sake and for the sake of the young men who will be lucky enough some day to win you for his mate.

RESCUES GIRL FROM SURF AND FINALLY WEDS HER

Fair Visitor at Atlantic City Goes Near Death, When Telegraph Operator Saves Her.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 1.—Samuel Oney Higo, a middle-aged telegraph operator, won a young and pretty wife by his heroism in the surf last summer, when he rescued the girl from the undertow. The wedding took place in Altoona, the bride being Miss Mary Charles of that city.

Miss Charles was here on a visit about a year ago and was bathing near Young's pier, when she was caught in the breakers and carried out in the breakers. She was sinking when Higo, bathing, discovered her plight, swam out and brought her to shore before guards discovered her danger.

The rescue resulted in a love match, and the operator has courted the girl siduously, with the resulting wed-

Miss Edith Palliser, who is working for her sex in England, says:

"There are 4,000,000 women wage earners in England who demand the right of political representation."

"Women need the vote to give direct expression to their views, to demand the right to a voice in matters which touch the lives of women at every point, such as, for instance:

"The policy which gives cheap or dear food, which does or does not tax the necessities of life."

"The laws dealing with the liquor traffic."

"The care of the old."

"The land question, especially in relation to housing and the unemployed."

"The laws regulating the hours and wages of industry and the position of the great women working class movements, especially trade unionism and friendly societies."

"Also the foreign policy of the nation."

"Married women whose work is at home should have the vote, because they contribute by their unpaid labor in the home just as directly as if they brought in wages. Their claim is as strong as that of direct wage earners."

A Big Fan.

A good deal of royal significance has been given to fans. They were symbols of authority in Mexico before the conquest. Queen Mary of England received on New Year's day in 1558 77 fans to keep the heat of the fire. Queen Elizabeth favored the custom that a fan was the only present a sovereign could receive from a subject. Fans have not always been dainty trifles. Jean de Balsac, a French writer of the seventeenth century, wrote from Italy during the reign of Louis XIV of the enormous fans in use there suspended from the ceiling and worked by four servants. He says, "I have a fan that makes what enough in my chamber to wreathe a ship."

IRON CONSTITUTION OF NELSON RUSTED BY BRITT

SAN FRANCISCO BOY PROVES MASTER OF DANE AT EVERY POINT NATIVE SON OF THE GOLDEN WEST WINS OVER THE DANE

Britt Outpoints, Outslugs, Outgames and Tames the "Viking" in Handiest of Fashions.

By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Barring a nosebleed and the fact that he stood considerable buffeting at the hands, shoulders and head of "Battling" Nelson, James Edward Britt, pride of California, came out of his fight with the Dane at Auditorium Rink in San Francisco last night as chipper, clear-headed and unscarred as a society debutante emerging from her triumph after the cotillion.

Those who wish to rave about that fight may do so. Let them call it the greatest contest of the century, a battle of master craftsmen, a whirlwind contest—anything, everything they like, but the writer did not see it that way last night, and in the cooler judgment of today cannot agree with the gentlemen of hyperbole tendency—the sixteen to one writers, the circus poster paragraphers, the sort of stars and stripes scribes.

No, not twice in seven thousand years can I see where it was the fight of the century, the contest of gladiators, the joust of a modern Richard and Saladin.

It looked to me like not one of these things. It was too much one-sided for that.

BULL AND TOREADOR.

Reader, if you wish to get just the accurate idea of that battle, if you didn't see it, concur up to yourself a bull fight with Nelson as the bull and Britt, as the tormenting, ceaseless, scientific, calculating, satanic, sardonic Toreador.

And to heighten the illusion Britt wore a pair of blood red tights.

Nelson, like the would rush at the terminating red tights, and as soon as that figure would shoot out a straight left, sword-like, it would either vanish or get so close that the horned Nelson and his much vaunted infighting were useless.

It was Britt's fight from the very clang of the gong. He outdid Nelson at every angle of the game. Nelson took a tremendous beating, but the Dane's defeat adds only another chapter to the history of the tough fellows of the ring.

They fit once too often, and that's what happened to Nelson last night.

IRON MAN MALLEABLE.

True Nelson was an Iron Man. I witnessed a sample of his organism last night. He was a man of wonderful physique, iron aspect, who, as Wordsworth phrases it, might have "danced from head to foot in Iron man."

Nelson may be "Iron," but if he is, he is of the malleable sort, and James Edward Britt, the brainiest fighter in the ring, turned and tamed him as a stoker turns and frames the molten metal in the hopper.

I was directly back of Nelson's corner, and could study every emotion. In the early part of the fight the study was no more interesting than solving a problem in geometry.

In the nineteenth round the most notable change I ever saw on any living being's countenance overspread the features of the Dane.

Just as he was returning to his corner in that round, he stopped, turned, and with a look of utter bewilderment, astonishment, anguish and defeat on his face he peered after the retreating Nelson, red-robed, and tormenting.

When Nelson sat down I saw him shake all over with the spirit of a lost soul in the wilderness—and I dare not say a spirit of delusion.

SPIRIT BROKEN.

The strivings of the outer man were unutterable. He made some remark to his second; seeming not to speak, but to be spoken from: I saw the strong man bowed down, and his spirit failing.

The man's whole spirit seemed leaving his body. In that one moment when Nelson turned to look at his tormentor, his whole soul and courage seemed to have winged its way from him.

Now, the writer will relinquish to no man in chanting the anthems of Nelson's courage.

The Viking blood was to the fore in him. In desperation he salled the Jolly Roger. He asked neither quarter nor mercy from his tormentor, but pegged away, as gallantly as ever a Viking of his tribe singing the swan song in the swishings and swirlings of wild seas.

HEARTS COURAGEOUS.

In course Britt was not a whit behind the Dane, and in coolness, after he had got under action, he seemed the Dane's master.

Britt was first to enter the ring and he was apparently very nervous. This is only a credit to him, as the best thoroughbred man or beast is always high strung and irritable when they sniff the impending struggle.

Nelson is more the stolid business man, and less the artist than Britt.

He looked like a man going into a department store at 8 o'clock in the morning to go to work.

If he had any doubt as to the outcome he didn't show it in that stolid Danish face of his. He bowed and scraped forward and backwards to acquaintances as the Boston Mr. Fezzywiz did in the ancient days of nearly a century ago.

BRITT NERVOUS.

The Californian bit his lips, shaved his hair with his gloves, fidgeted at his shoe strings and fumbled about his robe. He had been burned at the fire and evidently feared it, but determined to chance the risk of playing with it and avoid it which he did admirably well.

Britt deserves unstinting praise for his work. He fought a cool, calculating battle, and after the seventh round he was the Dane's master, at every turn of the need, and tamed and broke the impudent Nelson. Like a riddle master cooling the ardent spirit of a wild beast.

The paper will give Britt credit for having four or five seconds and advisers. He had thousands. From the press boxes, the boxes, stall and gallery came waves of advice and encouragement to James Edward, but he was as heedless of them as the ocean of the dulcet, cooling moonlight boughs.

BRITT'S CAREFUL BATTLE.

He fought it his own battle, and paid heed only to the warnings, and remonstrances from two persons.

Such he would remember as that he would remember as that he would

PLUMBER BOY BEATS FIGHTING DANE IN BATTLE THAT WAS SENSATIONAL FROM THE FIRST GONG TO THE LAST

By EDDIE SMITH.

If in your imagination you picture two young men in perfect physical condition, with not an ounce of spare flesh on their white bodies, clad in breach cloths and shoes, their hands covered with padded gloves, fighting each other with the desperation of a battle for life between wild beasts of the forest, you have a vivid idea of what the battle between Jimmy Britt the sturdy native son and Battling Nelson the Durable Dane was last night.

Never did the wild beast fight with more tenacity and fierceness than did these two human beings. Britt with the cleverness and slyness of a panther and Nelson with the strength and endurance of a grizzly bear.

Britt with the aid of the brains that nature was kind enough to supply him with, fought a heavy battle at all times and even in the rounds that things looked bad for him, he made good use of his brains. Only a few times did he forget the instructions from his corner and the plan of battle that he has been mapping out for this contest since the day that he tasted defeat at the hands of the same Battling Nelson at Colma.

Nelson was blessed with more strength and stamina than Britt, but with less quickness of either thought or action, was coming at all times and his fight was made along the lines that all his previous ones have been made, that of continually boring in, taking punch after punch and contenting himself with the landing of an occasional punch at long range and a tap or two of short arm jabs at close quarters.

In the second round Britt kept flogging away with his left. Nelson stopped some, but by varying with a right cross, Britt found numerous openings for the best punch in his repertoire.

In the third round the Dane went after Britt with all his force, and tried, and succeeded to some extent, to land those short arm blows for which he was famous.

Britt, however, built up fortifications with his forearms that kept the Dane's punches glancing off, or at most landing on his elbows, glove or forearm.

Nelson, who shined in jolting and rippling his opponents with short bolts when the men he looked was almost helpless under Britt's protective system. Jimmy successfully stopped every invasion.

NELSON'S ROUNDS.

The fourth to seventh rounds favored Nelson slightly, and he had Britt blood bespattered, but Jimmy kept cool under fire, and saved himself from any serious bother. At the end of the seventh Britt showed signs of fatigue. He was breathing heavily, but the careful nursing of Spider Kelly sent the great little Nelson back to the center of the ring fresh as a lily.

After that time Britt was never really in trouble. In the eighth round, he turned as he was going back to his corner, and for the first time in the fight showed a gleam of confidence.

In the ninth round while backing away, Britt shot over a choppy right, which rocked the Dane from stern to beam, and in the succeeding round he shuddered and bounded after the squared circle like a rudderless ship.

NELSON FLOUNDERING.

In the twelfth again, Nelson sagged a bit at the knees from some stinging right hand cloots to the jaw.

In the next five rounds Britt kept chopping away at the Dane and everyone in the house was convinced that he could not lose, if he could stick the limit, and to a man who can see further than his nose this seemed as evident and easy as rolling off a log.

Britt did not lose his head at his apparent advantage, but fought cool and careful as he said he would. Had Britt cared to take chances he might have knocked the Dane out, but he figured wisely that a decision was good enough for him and his logic was faultless as a Worth gown.

Jack Welch could do nothing but slap Britt on the back in token of victory.

Britt fought a grand fight and came much nearer stowing away the Durable Dane than any man that has ever tackled the huge Dane.

Before Britt left his corner for the last round Spider Kelly lovingly patted him, and warned him to be careful, and the goal that he has been striving for so long was won.

Nowhere but in knockout could revert

BRITT, GANS AND KELLY WIN OVER DURABLE DANE

By special request, Charles H. Brennan, formerly a San Francisco newspaper man and now in business circles on this side of the bay, has written for THE TRIBUNE his impressions of last night's greatistic event. While associated with one of the big dailies in the metropolis, his duties carried him to the ringside at every big battle that has been fought on the coast in recent years and today he tells us how the milling went at the Auditorium Rink when Jimmy Britt decisively beat the Great Dane from Hegewisch.

Trinity of Brains Gets Decision From Mass of Brawn at Auditorium Rink.

By CHARLES BRENNAN.

Jimmy Britt, Joe Gans and "Spider" Kelly won a decision last night over "Battling" Nelson at the Auditorium Rink in San Francisco.

Sounds funny, doesn't it? But nevertheless that's the whole story of the fight as I saw it from the ringside. When I say this, I don't mean for an instant to take one iota of the world of credit that is coming to him away from the head of the Flat Trust, for in the estimation of every sporting critic and authority that eat near the ring last night, and surely in the howling opinion of those ten thousand fight fans Jimmy Britt fought the greatest battle of his life. But he fought it according to the constant instructions of "Spider" Kelly, the greatest second of them all, and Joe Gans, the man who was first to take the sap out of the "Durable Dane" in that memorable forty-two round matinee at Goldfield.

Now don't misunderstand. It is not the intention to convey the idea that Jimmy was lacking in anything that goes to prove that he is undoubtedly Nelson's master. He fought a grand, careful battle, exhibiting a wonderful amount of tact, science, gameness, speed and something more—a hitting force that I have never before thought him guilty of.

He used all of these and he fought his own battle when the Dane sent the fight along into territory foreign to Jimmy's corner. But surely, certainly, he would carry the milling back to within range of either the husky tones of Joe Gans or the squeaky, nervous voice of the Spider.

BRITT SO CALM.

Britt was never really in danger, although he allowed himself to be smugged over into two or three tight places where he had to depend upon the clinch to take him out in safety.

It may be that I am superstitious, but just as soon as Jimmy reached the corner of the ring on the south side opposite his own corner, the tide of the fight turned in favor of the use-to-be-Hegewisch wonder, and James Edward had to draw on all of his tact to get him back to the center.

There wasn't a moment, as far as I could see, during the whole of the twenty rounds, when Britt was in danger of being beaten by either the Dane or the Spider.

BATTLING NELSON:

It was a good fight. Britt had it on me only in the last round and he won.

REFEREE WELSH:

I rendered the only decision possible. Britt fought a great fight and won decisively.

JIMMY BRITT:

I knew I could beat Nelson and I did it. I will fight anybody in the world and ask no favors.

JOE GANS:

The proposed match with Nelson is off. I will fight Britt if the inducements are fair and right.
